RESPONSE TO AMENDMENT

1. This communication is responsive to the RCE amendment filed on March 17, 2006.

Claims 1-25 have been cancelled.

Claims 26-37 have been newly added.

Claims 26-37 are pending examination.

The New Grounds of Rejection

2. Applicant's amendment and arguments received on March 17, 2006 have been fully considered, however they are deemed to be moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 26, 31, 32 and 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Applicant state selected base station in the claim but does not mention on what basis the selection is being made. It is unclear from the claim language why a base station would be selected if all base stations contain identical an identical sequence of informational packets to be communicated.

Claims 30 and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear what is meant by "applies greater power". It is also unclear what is meant by information that is not communicated with the packet identifier.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC §102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

5. Claims 26-27, 30-35 and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Neumiller et al., (Neumiller) U.S. Patent No. 6,226,283.

6. As to claim 26, Neumiller teaches a fast packet transmission system comprising:
a plurality of base stations that each store an identical sequence of informational packets to be communicated (see Fig. 1, col. 3, lines 29-36); and a communication terminal that communicates to a selected one of the base stations a packet identifier identifying a next packet within the sequence of packets to be communicated by the selected base station (see Fig. 1, col. 4, lines 21-34), wherein:

only the selected base station communicates to the communication terminal the packet identified by the communicated packet identifier (see Fig. 1, col. 4, lines 21-34).

7. As to claim 27, Neumiller teaches the system of claim 26, wherein the communication terminal communicates the packet identifier identifying the next packet to be communicated only when the communication terminal selects a different base station to communicate the next packet than was used to communicate the most recently received packet of the sequence of packets (see Fig. 1, col. 4, lines 21-34).

8. As to claim 30, Neumiller teach the system of claim 26, wherein the communication terminal applies greater power to the transmission of the packet identifier than to the transmission of information that is not communicated with the packet identifier (see Fig. 1, col. 4, lines 21-34).

9. Claims 31-37 do not teach or define any new limitation above claims 26-30, therefore they are rejected for similar reasons.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claim 28, 29 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Neumiller et al., (Neumiller) U.S. Patent No. 6,226,283 and in view of Parkvall et al., (Jones) U.S. Patent No. 6,542,736.

12. As to claims 28, 29 and 36, Neumiller teach the system as described above. Neumiller does not explicitly teach wherein the communication terminal identifies, in the communication identifying the next packet to be communicated, the type of modulation the selected base station is to use in communicating the next packet.

Parkvall teaches data communications in a radio communications system, and more specifically, to adaptation of a radio link to a mobile terminal based on current radio communication conditions. Link adaptation may be accomplished by changing the transmit power of the base station, e.g., increasing the transmit power level for data transmitted to mobile terminals with a bad channel quality. Link adaptation may also be accomplished by changing the type of modulation and amount of channel coding applied to the data to be transmitted by the base station (see abstract, col. 2, lines 37-56).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to incorporate the teaching of Parkvall into the invention of Neumiller in order to be able attain better channel quality and to maximize the data transmission rate.

13. Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers in the references as applied to the claims above for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings of the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant in preparing responses, to fully consider the references in its entirety as potentially teaching of all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context.

Response to Arguments

14. Applicant's amendment and arguments received on March 17, 2006 have been fully considered but they are deemed to be moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.
